THE DRAMA-MUSIC. THE DRAMA. UNION SQUARE THEATER-MR. RAYMOND AS COL. SELLERS. Life, in these aqueous and torrid days, is epresented by a wet rag, and opinion by a yawn. For fr. Raymond, accordingly, it is unfortunate that the nent of his redutrance on the New-York stage should ust now. He may, indeed, receive from an inde-blie the tribute of passing admiration: he is not likely to receive, at the instant, from judicious stuof his art very much of that thoughtful apprecia ion which, to the true actor, is dearer than appli Thought stagnates under the scorching torrents of this pluvial Summer. For the public, however, Mr. Raynond's return is a positive blessing. He makes every-ody laugh, and he brings at least a momentary forget-niness of suffering. He was welcomed, last night, at the Union Square Theater, by a delighted throng ctators, that crowded the house and made its walls the next six weeks; shedding the rose-leaves of mirth pon his multitude of old admirers, and winning new laufor his Micawber of the West. His return prompts in our thought no new line of comment. It is the arrival of one of nature's greatest boons to her children, a man genuine comic humor; and therefore it an incident to be halled and recorded with gladness and gratitude. But when this is said we find selves as to reasons for so high an estimate of the side of it, and so completely saturated it with his own natural, brilliantly comic person. The narrow little de ousand ways, with which words and actions are in no ous, nonsensical verbinge, the bombast, the unexpec quince and levity, this personality shines outparrow buffoon crackling through a farce. the extravagant playfulness of his n that nature's basis. In his performance, last night

sctor-thrown back upon views that we have already e than once expressed in this place. Mr. Raymond mel Sellers tacked by a slight thread to a flimsy play-the bare outline of a character, uninvested with framatic interest. He took this part and poured into it his own forceful, humorous, eccentric, resonant, and kindly fantastical pathre; and he made it a vital, juley. and infinitely droll human being. He found it presented in only a few dramatic aspects; but he got so thoroughly kindred and apposite individuality, that he expanded the range and compass of the drama which inclosed it, and transfigured a grotesque sketch into a vigorous, limited, as to expression, to the symbols of words and actions—finds another and a signal discomiliure in this remarkable success. Personality, which may be defined as the fragrance of character. manner concerned. The color of Helen's eyes was meither an act nor a word; yet unquestionably it had its weight of influence upon Paris's adjudication of the apple. It is the charm of personality which makes character potential, and this is the strength of Mr. Raymond's Colonel Scilers. the clear, sonorous voice, the angular, edness of thinking, and all the superimposed grandiloing a somewhat broad experience of feeling suffering. Colonel Sellers, as Mr. Raymond ctrays him, is just a little quaint; certainly nd new and then rueful-just as clearly se he is ludicrous; and so we think of him as a human being with a heart and a history and not as a mere osophy and without fineness of art-for Mr. Raymond either-the actor has intuitively grasped and nature, is yet rooted in the goodness, manliness, cheerfulness, and humane sympathy which forces and expedients of method-positive and subtle-for which this representation has all along been excellent. The bright, significant glance, the mysterious pause, the abrupt change of inflection, the ardent demeanor presently lapsing into drelly puzzled reflectiveness-all were deftly, be spontaneously, employed, and each wrought its due effect. The defects of the performance, also, remain the same: the humor is, now and then, a little raspy, and the character [but this is because of the extremely in-artistic manner in which it is displayed by the drama) is a little monotonous. This injustice to take to be the most grievous defect of the ece. It has, however, some others: it proceeds upon the theory that theatrical tableaux-by which are meant -are dramatic effects; it deals in description ability and nature, alike in its summary dealing with may be deemed impossible. Sellers can float it—and therefore it will float. Without Mr. Raymond it would re sunk long ago. This is perhaps the time for a few selves with saving that there is nothing distinctively American in this specimen—aside from Sellers; and may a gracious Providence forbid that this should be taken as exemplar. Last night's revival of Gilded Age" was made with capital scenery, and, by German and other European bondholders. ents. Miss Marie Gordon [Mrs. Raymon 1] appeared as the heroine and met with the honors of anequivocal success. She is not only a brilliantly pretty woman, but a good actress-good for the reason that what was expressed in her words and actions passed first through her thoughts and feelings, and then was uttered with the art that carries meaning to the apprehension it addresses. Miss Gordon has the compact little head and the lustrous eyes that betoken aiert intellect; and her power to convey passion in a sweeping, yet self-poised outburst-as in the shootshowed her to possess, likewise, deep feeling ing seene—showed her to possess, fixewise, deep feeling and the artist's skill in the use of it. Her sollloquies, and the artist's skin in the the though, were spoken too much as addressed to the house. Mr. Raymond was recalled after his tipsy exit, in act fourth, and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond were recalled at the end of the play. Upon the first appearance of Miss Grace Stuart, who came forward in the very bad part of Emily Hawkins, we remark with reluctance.

It was a failure. The lady seems to be interesting in mind and in temperament; and she is obviously refined in manners; but she did not, upon this occasion, display the slightest qualification for the stage. It is the worst unkindness that hesitates to the truth in such an emergency as this. The stage is already populous with embittered, half broken-hearted people, who, at the start, were mistaken aspirants injudictously encouraged. Miss Stuart appeared, it is true, in a weak but even in this she could scarcely be and, while ske was evidently frightened, she seemed as evidenty to be self-satisfied. She will be wise to refrain from an endeavor in which success seems an impossibility. The miscellaneous cust of "The Gilded Age" was found to have been judiciously made. Mr. Morris, Mrs. Wilkins, Mr. Peakes, Mr. Walcot, Mr. Edwards, and Mr. Burnettthe latter particularly-did more than justice to little parts. The cartain fell amid peals of laughter at Colonel Sellers, and in these the bad moral of the trial-scene emphatically ratified.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE. The reopening of the Grand Opera House attracted a share of the public attention last night.

Messrs. Hamilton and Wheelock have presented the spectacic of "Around the World" in dress, and with a good ballet and fine stage effects. Low prices will provail at this theater under its new management, and thus its entertainments will be piaced within the reach of even the poorest classes of

WALLACK'S THEATER.

The advent of Miss Julia Matthews and her English comic opera company, at Walinck's Theater, has been postponed till next Thursday, August 19. New music and new words have been introduced "Boulotte"-the adaptation of "Barbe Bleue" with which the season opens and additional rehearsals of the piece are found to be necessary.

FIFTH AVENUE THEATER.

The Vokes Family will remain this week at Mr. Daly's Theater, appearing in "A Bunch of Berries." Next Monday a covival of "The Big Bonanza" will be effected, and on the Monday following-Aug. 30-the 'Mexicae Juvenile Opera Bouffe Troupe" will appear in 'The Grande Duchess." The question of Mr. Daly's right to bring out "Rose Michel," the French drams which Messrs. Shook and Palmer, of the Union Square Theater, have purchased from the author, and which they mainmin that they can legally hold, is to be tested at law.

BOOTH'S THEATER.

Mr. George Belmore has accepted an engage ment at Booth's Theater, and will appear there on the 20th of September-succeeding Mr. Barry Sullivan-as Nat Gosling, in Mr. Boucleault's drama of "The Flying Seud." This part, it will be remembered, was very well acted by Mr. A. W. Young, when the piece was performed at Wallack's, some years ago. Mr. Belmore has played the part 676 times in Great Britain, and is distinguished in it. Mr. Frederie Thorne, whose fine performance of Fluellin, last season, was so telling a feature in "Henry V.," and made the actor so decidedly popular, has been engaged in the stock company of Booth's Theater, for

ROBINSON HALL.

Mr. Robinson announces that the comic opera of "Chilperie" will be withdrawn, at Robinson Hail, at the end of the present week-the fifth of its run-and that "The Princess of Trebizonde" will be brought out next Monday. Miss Clara Fisher's engagement in Balti-more has, we learn, been rescinded, and this bright young vocalist will remain here.

METROPOLITAN THEATER.

Additional wandering stars have been conjured by Mr. Harry Sanderson, and hidden to stand upon the stage of the Metropolitan Theater. Mile. Zoe and Miss Kate Raymond, among others, reënforced the numerous corps there gathered last night.

PARK THEATER.

This theater, cleansed and renovated, will be reopened on the 30th of August, when Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Florence will once more greet the New-York public, appearing in the new American drama written for them by Mr. B. E. Woolf of Boston, and entitled-in Washingten Irving's weil-known phrase—" The Almighty Dollar.

The new season at the Lyceum will begin on the 6th of September, with Opera Bouffe. "Madame L'Archidue" has been selected as the opening piece, and this will be given with new-scenes and dresses, from Paris, and a newly organized company, comprising the following persons: Mile. Coralie Geoffroy; Mile. Planche Mile. Marie Nardynn; Mile. Julia Hosdez; Mile. Luie Faye; M. De Quercy; M. Roger; M. Darcy; M. Castel; M. Duplan; M. Valter. Six of these, it will be observed, are new names to this stage. The company Redon, and Kleber, and Messrs. Davalis, Gerard, Adorey, Ghele and M. Rosenboom. Among the fresh operas to be presented are "Les Prés St. Gervals" and "Le Canard a Trois Becs." The opera bouffe season is to last till early more Italian Shakespeare. A Prench company has been engaged, by Messra, Gran & Chizzola; and, during Signor Rossi's stay at the Lyceum, French and Italian dr. matte performances will be given on alternate nights. The best of modern French plays are to be presented in the best manuer. In January, next year, Opera Bouffe will be resumed at the Lyceum, and Mile. Zulma Bouffar, now a very popular personnge on the Paris stage, will appear as the heroine of Strauss's opera "La Reine

SALE OF THE ROCKFORD, ROCK ISLAND AND ST. LOUIS RAILROAD.

THE ROAD BOUGHT AT AUCTION BY THE GERMAN

BONDHOLDERS. CHICAGO, Aug. 16 .- Mr. H. W. Bishop, mas ter in enancery under the decree of foreclosure entered by Judge Drummond, in the suit of the Union Trust Company of New-York, sold the bankrupt Rockford, Rock Island and St. Louis Railroad yes-terday, under the decree. An entrance fee or cash payment of $200,000 was required, and this mate-rially limited the bidding. The sale was postponed last week on the grounds that a combination had been formed to bid in the road for $500,000 or less, the represntative of the German bondholders not having been fully instructed as to the amount they should To-day however, they came up smiling, the cable having given them instructions, and bankers here having agreed to supply the money. for the American bondholders; Mr. Goudy who has been in the fight, and several well-known lawyers and railroad men, were in attendance.

Mr. Bishop, Master in Chancery, read the decree of the Court, the order of sale, and the order of postponement. It was stated that the person purchasing must pay $200,000 eash, the rest to be paid in accordance with the terms of the decree and order. He also stated that the taxes for 1873-4 would be paid from the purchase money, Mr. Gondy next read a paper giving notice that the St. Louis, Goody next read a paper giving notice that the St. Louis, Alton, and Rock Island Railroad had a chaim on the road, which is in litigation in the Circuit Court of McDonough County; that they propose to prosecute their claim, and that any sale would be subject to it. He read a notice from Mr. H. H. Porter, that he claimed to own some of the rolling stock, and should fellow it into whosesoever hands it went. There being no further objections, Mr. Bishop ordered for sale the road and all its appurtenances.

The first bidder was Mr. Charles W. Hassler of New-York, who represented the American bondholders, He bid $300,000. Somebody raised it to $310,000, and the bidding was quite brisk until it got up to $500,000. After that there were only tures bidders and by others for the Chicago, Burlington, and Quincey Road; Mr. Osterbury, who was for the German, and a thin stranger whom nobody knew, and who declined to give his name, or tell who he was bidding for. After considerable competition, 200 miles of road which has a borbied debt of $5.000,000 or $10,000,000, were knocked down to Mr. Osterburg, represently the German bondholders for $1.320,000.

TEN-HOUR MOVEMENT IN NEW-ENGLAND.

SMALL BUT AGGRESSIVE MEETING-FORMATION OF A STANDING COMMITTEE ON AGITATION-LETTER FROM GOV. HOWARD,

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 16.-The New-Engiand ten-hour demonstration at Rocky Point to-day was attended by only about 1,500 people. James Austin of Woonsocket was President; George Gunton and Henry Seavey, Secretaries. Addresses were made by George Gunton, E. M. Chamberlain of Boston, Henry Scavey of Fall River, Ira Steward of Cambridge. Frederick G. Pettigreve and Nicholas Hathaway of Fail River, George T. Stearns of New-Bedford, Judge Lapham, H. B. Coffin, and William G. Heaver of Fall River, Geo. T. McNeal, President of the Boston Eight-Hour League, N. E. Chase of Boston, and others. The speeches were all directed to the agitation for a Ten-Hour law, especially in Rhode Island. The following resolutions were

Resolved. That tsu-hour legislation is the great object that calls us together, and we counsel our friends everywhere to waive every other issue, and to recognize no friends or foes except as they aid or oppose this long-deferred, world-wide measure; that a "New-England Ten-Hour Campaign Committee" be created by this Convention, with full and absolute anthority, to proceed at once to the most vigorous and efficient measures necessary to carry on this campaign, such as raising money, dealing with the ten-hour record and the options of all candidates for law-making positions, establishing an agency or agencies and headquarters, circulating copies of the Ten-Hour bill to be submitted for legislative action, and presenting monthly reports of contributions received and expended that shall be sufficiently full and exact to command the confidence of our friends, while teaching all who oppose ten hours legislation the useful lesson that the managers of this movement mean business; that the present sanitary condition of the operatives, especially the young, imperatively demands a cessation of the long hours of labor, and an opportunity on their part for education and exercise in the open air sufficient to fairly develop their physical and mental organizations.

ACCIDENT TO EDWIN BOOTH.

Much excitement was created in this city last evening by the announcement that Edwin Booth had been fatally injured, at his residence near Cos Cob, Conn. Inquiry was made and it was learned that about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Mr. Booth was driving in his phæton, and his horse, becoming frightened, ran away. The phæton was demolished, and Mr. Booth, thrown to the ground with great violence, and sustained internal injuries which it is feared will prove fatal. Information of the sad accident was telegraphed by his wife to Mr. McVicker of Chicago, her father. Mrs. Booth, the mother of Edwin Booth, and his brother Joseph, were summoned from Long Branch, where they had been spending the Summer, and immediately departed for the scene of the acci-dent. It was impossible to obtain any details of the particular injuries which Mr. Booth has suffered, but all accounts unite in stating that they are of a serious nature, and, if they do not result fatally, will disable him, in all probability, for several months.

He is under important engagements to Mr. Daly of the Fifth Avenue Theater and to John T. Ford of Baltimore. Mr. Booth was to have traveled through South with Mr. Ford during the com-Winter, Mr. Daly and Mr. Ford were both informed by telegraph of the accident, and it is understood that engagements with them have been practically canceled, although nothing definite can be learned upon this point. It was impossible last night to reach Cos Cob, the scene of the accident, by telegraph, and the details of the disaster could not be obtained. Cos Cob is the point at which Charles M. Burras, the author of "The Black Crock," was killed several years ago. It was at first supposed that the accident had resulted from a railway collision, or from an attempt on the part of Mr. in November, when the Italian tragedian Signor Rossi, Booth to jump from the train, but, as previously stated, the accident occurred while out riding.

While at Oberlin he published several popular works, the most important of which was "Lectures on Revivals of Religion." upwards of 12,000 copies of which were sold in this country alone. Mr. Finney continued to preach as a revivalist while holding his pastorate, and in 1818 he extended his labors to England, where he remained three years, effecting many conversions. In 1852 he became President of Oberlin College and held that position until 1866. Mr. Finney held advanced opinions on political and social questions, being in his time a resolute Abolitionist, and advocate of temperance. He was well grounded in theology, and delivered a series of lectures on that subject. During his revival labors he obtained the popular lite of "Filder" Finney, and excepting Cartwright there was probably no one of whom more odd and entertaining stories were told.

MURTAGH SUING FOR HIS BILL.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16, 1875. W. J. Murtagh, editor and proprictor of The National Republican, brought suit against the District Commissioners to-day to recover $47,000, the amount claimed as remaining due for advertising the tax sales last June, $50,000 having already been paid by the Commissioners on account. The claim is based upon a specific contract for the advertising at the rate of $1 per line. After the discovery that the advertising covered a period of ten years, and that the total sum of Murtagh's bill would reach nearly $100,000, the Commissioners attempted to compromise. Mr. Murtagh refuses to compromise LOCAL MISCELLANY.

BOLD ATTEMPTS OF BURGLARS. SILES VALUED AT $15,000 SAVED BY THE THIEVES INACTION-A STORE IN GRAND-ST. ENTERED IN THE DAY-TIME AND A LARGE QUANTITY OF LACES STOLEN.

A burglary at the bonded warehouses of Henry J. Meyer, at Nos. 54, 56, and 58 Laight-st., was frustrated at an early hour yesterday morning. If it had been successful it would have entailed a loss of about $15,000. About 1 a. m. yesterday Officer Robert Smith while on post had his attention called by an alarm rap given by the private watchman at Meyer's boude warehouses, which run through from Laight-st. to Vestry-st. Upon bastening down Laight-st, the officer saw three men rush out of the tenement house at No. 52 Laight st., adjoining the warehouse. He immediately gave chase, but the burglars separated, and he pursued and captured one, who subsequently gave his an examination of the premises it was found by Capt. Caffray that the burglars had ascended on Saturday night from the roof of the tenement house by means of a stepladder to the roof of the warehouse. They had cut a hole 18 inches square through the latter roof, and thus had effected an entrance into the warehouses. When inpagne and brandy, and there were evidences about the tore that they had remained there during Sunday in a state of intextication.

On Sunday night the burglars opened three cases of silks, the contents of which they took to the roof, and were in the act of lowering into the yard of the tenement

Police Station, and locked up until yesterday aftermoon, when he was taken to the Tombs, and held in default of $5,000 bail to answer.

Another burglary was accomplished in the Eighth Ward, the thieves escaping with about $5,000 worth of guipure laces belonging to Philip Nettre of No. 108 Grandest. The burglary took place some time between Saturday afternoon and yesterday morning, as the premises were securely locked at 4 p. m. on Saturday, and when they were again opened yesterday morning the burglary was discovered, although the locks were found in perfect order and all the windows were secured. It is supposed that the burglars used false keys to open the front door of the store on the first floor, occupied by Merrill & Wilkim, and then proceeded to the basement, through the ceiling of which they cut their way into the hall, at the foot of the stairway leading to the upper floors, which were occupied by Philip Nettre. The laces undoubtedly were carried down the stairway and passed through the hoie in the floor, as there were evidences that three men had sat down at the rear part of the basement, and had removed the laces from the boards on which they had been wound, for the purpose ofdecreasing both the weight and builk. They had removed from Nettre's store more laces than they could convey away, but those left behind were the least valuable. The laces were then packed in a trunk and satchel, which belonged to one of the employee of Merrill & Wilkins's store, and which the thieves found on the premises. The theory of the pulpes is that the burglary was com-

The proposed advance in rates to points between this city and Boston, Albany, and Washington was made by both companies in the morning. These rates, as stated in THE TRIBUNE of yesterday do not differ from those charged prior to Feb. 15, 1875. W. J. Syms. Vive-President of the Atlantic and Pacific Company, stated to a reporter of THE TRIBUNE, that tion of the two companies, although there has been considerable talk about the matter between some of the large-stockholders. "A meeting of the conference comarrangement probably will be agreed upon, by which the companies will be consolidated, or the negotiations the companies will be consolidated, or the negotiations will be broken off, in which case it is probable that nothing further on the subject will be done at present.

"My idea is," Mr. Syms said, "that the most rigid conomy should be practiced in the management of these companies. The Western Union has paid some small dividencis, while the Atlantic and Pacific has not attempted to pay any dividend. By a proper consolidation of the two companies, I have estimated that $1,500,000 can be saved annually, and yet the public will be as conveniently served as at present. Suppose we can save only half this sum by consolidation; the remainder would be sufficient to enable us to make a substantial reduction; in the rates. A great measure of the Lieut. CHARLES G. FINNEY.

Charles G. Finney, who was for many years President of the Oberlin College, Ohno, deed suddenly yesterday of heart disease at his late residence in Oberlin. He was apparently in good health up to the time of his death. This venerable man, who was once widely known, was born in Warren, Conn., Aug. 29, 1792. In carly life he studied law in Jefferson County, New-York, but gave up that pursuit to join the ministry of the Congregational Church, in which he was ordained in 1822 he began missionary labors as a revivalist, and by his wonderful powers as a preacher he effected great wood. In 1835 he accepted a professorship at Oberlin follege, and in 1835 became pastor of the First Congreational Church in that town. There is no question about the fact that no more lines are needed in the West." CONTESTED WILL IN JERSEY CITY.

The investigation in the case of the death of the late Stephen K. Joralemon was begun yesterday in the Hudson County Orphans' Court. Mr. Joralemon left a will which bequeathed all his property, except $1,500, o his wife during her lifetime. At her death it was to fall to her daughter by a former husband, unless she married John H. Boyd of Essex County, N. J. In that ent, three-fourths of the estate would be given to the st. Barnabas Hospital of Newark, and the remainder to Northern Lodge, No. 25, of Free Masons of Newark. After the funeral, rumors arose in relation to foul play, and his sister, Eleanor A. Stoddard, filed a caveat protesting against the admission of the will to probate, and claiming that undue influence had been used to persuade Mr. Joralemon to execute the document.

A witness named Evans, who had known Mr. Joralemon for 20 years, and had worked for him during the mon for 20 years, and had worked for him during the past 14 years, testified that he saw him on the Saturday preceding the Monday on which his death took place, and that he was unconscloss and gasping for breath. The witness saw a cut on his forehead, which some one said had been inflicted by failing from a chair. Mrs. Joralemon did not say anything about it. Witness had never heard that Mr. Joralemon had heart disease or could not lie in bed. He thought the wound on the head was produced by fool means, and did not think it right that the body should be buried. Catharine Davis, an auni of the deceased man, testified that she had seen a wound on his temple and another on the cheek which his wife nail stated were caused by failing from a chair in an apopiectic fit. Mrs. Joralemon testified that her husband's iliness was of such a nature that he was unable to lie in bed, and that she was in the act of getting up to attend him when he fell from his chair in a fit and received the bruises. The case was adjourned until to-morrow.

JUSTICE DEFEATED AT LONG BRANCH. It was resolved recently by the local authorities in Long Branch that the disorderly houses in that place should be closed. On Sunday evening, one of the proprietors named Townley was arrested and arraigned for trial yesterday afternoon before Justice Lane. The Court-room was crowded with friends of the prisoner, and Justice Lane and Lawyer Trantman were openly insuited. Several reluctant witnesses testified, and sufficient evidence was elicited to secure a conviction. The Judge therefore sentenced Townley to pay a fine of $50 or be imprisoned for 20 days.

During the proceedings, the turbulent crowd had stood with their hats on, badgered the witnesses, and insuited with their nats on, badgered the withcoses, and insuited the prosecutors. Several policemen were present, but they would not enforce the magistrate's demand for order. When the sentence was announced, Townley deorder. When the sentence was announced, Townley de-ciared that he would neither pay any fine nor be im-prisoned, and the crowd yelled approvingly. The Justice told Police Captain Green to put Townley in a cell. Green advanced to the railing excitedly, shook his fist at the Justice, and said, I wont do it. Mr. Townley's a friend of mine, I know him well, and he isn't going to be locked up." Judge Lane then a second time requested the Captain to take charge of the prisoner, but, receiving a profane reply, ordered another polloeman to do the same, when the Captain countermanded the order, and a scene of confusion followed, during which the Police Captain heaped opprobrious and defiant epithets upon the Justice and Mr. Trantman, and ended by giving the prisoner up to the mob, who liberated him, since which Townley has not been rearrested.

DISTRESSING ACCIDENT AT ROCKAWAY. Another drowning accident occurred yester-Another drowning accaden. William Sanneider of Brooklyn, E. D., accompanied by his wife and three children, visited the beach for a day's amusement. After enjoying himself with his family, Mr. Schneider went in to have a swim, while his wife and children walked up and nowh on the beach. There were only three brings persons bathing at the time, and Mr. Schneider, being a fair swimmer, ventured out beyond the buoy. Suddenly he was seen to sink beneath the water, and the infe-boat was immediately launched. The body of the unfortunate man came to the surface several times, alowly drifting toward the shore. When brought to land all sizes of life had departed, and every effort to resuscitate him proved of no avail.

The Rhode Island Legislature, at its last The Knode Island Legislature, it its massession, made some needed reforms in militia matters. Many years ago a bill being introduced "for the organization of the militia," a hard-headed member from Pettyqmaymscott, who had been instructed by his constituency not to let them city chaps have everything their own way, arose in his sent and said: "Mr. Speaker, I goes in agin that bill. I goes in agin organs; they'll be dreadful unbandy things in battle now, let me tell you." So Aunt Rhody's army remained unorganized.
